CLASSICS AT FLORIDA STATE

The Department of Classics at Florida State University is the oldest in Florida and offers students the intimacy of a small liberal arts college in the midst of a large state university. There is an enthusiastic community of approximately 56 majors and 27 graduate students. Dedicated faculty specialize in Greek and Latin poetry, ancient history and historiography, Mediterranean archaeology, and ancient religion, gender, and cultural studies. The Department also plays an important role in preparing its students for a diverse range of careers in the 21st century, with FSU Classics alumni currently holding positions as university professors, museum curators, professional archaeologists, and high school teachers. Lastly, FSU hosts a wide variety of public lectures and events, including annual conferences of international scope through its endowed Langford Family Foundation.

GRADUATE STUDY

The Department of Classics is currently accepting students to its Ph.D. and M.A. programs. M.A. tracks include Ancient History, Classical Archaeology, Classical Civilizations, Greek, Latin, and Greek and Latin. More information on individual programs is available at https://classics.fsu.edu/programs/graduate-program

FIELDWORK

Cetamura del Chianti · Corinth · Cosa · Saronic Harbors Archaeological Research Project · Landscape Archaeology of Southwest Sardinia

FINANCIAL AID

The Department offers five-year funding packages for graduate students in its Ph.D. program and also funds most students in its M.A. programs. Funding combines research and teaching assistantships; in addition, the Department awards two competitive research fellowships to doctoral students in their final year of dissertation writing. Funding for travel to conferences, fieldwork, and other academic activities is also available.

HOW TO APPLY

https://classics.fsu.edu/programs/graduate-program/apply-graduate-program

Applications to all programs are due by December 15, 2021. Contact Prof. Andrea De Giorgi, Director of Graduate Admissions, with questions about our programs and the application process: adegiorgi@fsu.edu

GRADUATE FACULTY

Francis Cairns, Professor
Greek and Latin poetry, Medieval and Renaissance Latin

Jessica H. Clark, Associate Professor
History and literature of the Roman Republic

Andrea U. De Giorgi, Associate Professor
Roman visual culture and archaeology, Late Antiquity

Nancy T. de Grummond, FSU Distinguished Research Professor
Etruscan and Roman archaeology, Ancient Mythology

Laurel Fulkerson, Professor
Latin and Greek poetry, gender theory

Virginia M. Lewis, Associate Professor
Greek poetry and cultural history

Trevor S. Luke, Associate Professor
History and culture of the Roman Empire, Latin prose

Elizabeth A. Murphy, Assistant Professor
Roman archaeology, ancient economy, work and labor

Christopher Nappa, Professor
Latin literature, gender and sexuality in antiquity

Christopher A. Pfaff, Associate Professor
Greek art and architecture

Daniel J. Pullen, Professor
Prehistoric Aegean and Mediterranean archaeology

James P. Sickinger, Associate Professor
Greek history, literature, and epigraphy

Svetla Slaveva-Griffin, Associate Professor
Ancient philosophy, science, and medicine

Tim Stover, Associate Professor
Latin literature

OTHER FACULTY

Thomas J. Bolt, Postdoctoral Fellow
Latin literature and digital humanities

Michael Furman, Specialized Teaching Professor Pedagogy, Greek history

John Marincola, Leon Golden Professor Emeritus
Greek and Roman historiography and rhetoric

Leticia R. Rodriguez, Postdoctoral Fellow
Greek and Anatolian art and archaeology